Being honest and upfront in expressing expectations through your biodata for marriage is a good way to screen people that don't match your expectations. Please do not list only your dislikes, but don't shy away from listing non-negotiable (such as smoking, drinking habits). "Interested only in teetotalers and non-smokers." "I expect my partner to be a vegetarian." "Horoscope match is required. Please share your horoscope if you are interested." Here are three examples of descriptive partner expectations for your biodata. Please use the descriptive partner preference samples below in addition to the basic expectations such as religion/caste, professional/education background, horoscope match, food habits, financial status to name a few. We have excluded the basic details in the sample descriptions below. We have included profile headlines as well. Looking for a Game of Thrones Fan The person I have in my mind should be comfortable interacting with people. He should be ready to roll up his sleeves and pitch in with household work when required. I am not a big fan of cats or dogs as pets. I am looking to marry someone who should have likes and interests that he is passionate about and have a positive outlook on life. If he is a GOT fan, it's an added bonus! No pomp and glitter I come from a progressive family, and we are not orthodox or religious. Someone who loves Indian traditions and culture yet can have an open mind about other cultures and practices will be a good match. A horoscope match is not required at our end. I am also open to a simple wedding ceremony devoid of all the pomp and glitter. Clutter-free living She should be a college-educated Rajput, independent, smart woman who is good-looking and has a great personality. I am looking for someone who can manage the day-to-day challenges on her own. She should be well-groomed and appreciate cleanliness at home. Keeping things organized and clutter-free is very important to me. Biodata for marriage for Jains The Jain marriage format for marriage - Businessman, parents no more If you like the sample marriage biodata, just copy the transcripts for the About Myself and Expectations sections. Make sure you modify it to suit your personal situation. About myself I am a self-made man that has been through a lot of challenges in life. I am currently the MD of Sethi Exports & Imports, Mumbai. I rely on yoga to maintain a balance in my life and deal with my work pressure. I end up travelling a lot to meet my customers. I love the surprises that spring up on my travels and love meeting people from different cultures and backgrounds. I believe that there is a lot to learn from this world and have a deep sense of curiosity. Reading is yet another passion that I pursue whenever I find the time. Keeping up with politics, economy, social issues and culture keep me charged up. Partner expectations I am looking to marry a career-oriented, Hindu girl who is financially independent, strong-willed, and has a strong network of family and friends. Caste does not matter to me and I am a teetotaler and a non-smoker and hence expect the women I marry to appreciate my preference. My business requires that I spend over 6-months in the year travelling outside Indian. The ability to lead an independent life while I am away is a key requirement. I am based out of Mumbai, and I will prefer to marry someone from Mumbai or Pune. I don't believe in horoscope matching. However, I can send my horoscope if required. Why we love this marriage biodata sample? This biodata sample has exceptionally well-written partner expectations. The boy clearly brings out the fact that he travels a lot and hence expects his future wife to be career-oriented and have the ability to lead an independent life during his absence. Marriage biodata sample for a handicapped man Biodata format for marriage - Handicapped boy living with parents Just copy the transcripts for the About Myself and Partner Expectations sections from this sample and use it for your own biodata for marriage. About myself I am a 25-year old man from a conservative, Arora family in Amritsar. I lost my legs in a road accident 5-years ago. I did go through a lot of struggles as I went through physical rehabilitation and adjustment to my new lifestyle on wheels! My rather unfortunate experience has a silver lining as well. My perspective towards life and what we take for granted has changed completely and I am now a much more confident and determined in my pursuits. I live each day as if it is my last day on earth and enjoy life to the fullest extent. I am financially independent and run a successful corporate training and consulting business from home. My family and friends have been my pillar of support. Partner preference I am looking for an educated woman who has an independent career of her own. I am searching for someone who can see beyond the fact that I am bound to my wheelchair. Height (or any other physical disability) certainly doesn't matter to me :). While I have grown up to handle everything that life can throw at me, I am looking for a companion who wouldn't mind providing a helping hand when I am outside. It would be great to marry someone who has prior exposure to working with physically disabled people or has been exposed to their lifestyle. Someone with a great sense of humour, having experienced adversity and overcome them in the past will probably be able to appreciate my point of view better. Why we love this marriage biodata? Handicapped people face twin challenges in arranged marriages. First of all, their self-esteem has already taken a beating and they are defined by their handicapped. The second challenge is that their options to look for a prospective match are limited (for all practical purposes) to other physically challenged men or women. In some cases, women from economically weaker sections of the society may marry a handicapped man because of their personal situation. This biodata sample brings out the personality of the man without resorting to using phrases that demonstrate self-pity or defensiveness. Want more responses for your marriage biodata? These 5 simple tips can make people want to talk to you! Watch this short video. Marriage biodata sample for a software engineer Biodata format for marriage - a software engineer who enjoys travelling We made it easy for you to use the content of this sample marriage biodata. Copy the transcripts below and make it your own. About myself Originally from Hyderabad, I have been living in Chennai for over 10 years. I am 6 feet tall and moderately built. My fitness obsession helps me in keeping my body fat at bay! My job as a software engineer has made me a patient man and improved my negotiation skills! My job also keeps me on my toes, as I am always trying to learn new skills to keep pace with the changing technology landscape. I especially value humour, the ability to laugh at yourself, being able to communicate, respect for culture, staying healthy, and the freedom to think out of the box. About my match I am looking for a killer smile and a spark in her eyes. I am tall, so you will have to be at least 5 feet 5 inches in height. My future wife should enjoy travelling with me as I follow the Indian cricket team worldwide! It goes without saying that you should know the difference between point and gully. My prospective match should be a nature lover and enjoy living in a secluded home that is far removed from the hustle and the bustle of the city. Why we love this biodata format? In this sample biodata, you will notice that the boy has called out all of his likes and dislikes clearly not only in the expectations section but also in the about myself section. The highlight of this biodata is the fact that your expectations and interests have a direct bearing on the person reading your biodata. Calling out how your lifestyle could change or influence the lifestyle of the person that you intend to marry is something that we can learn from. Biodata format for marriage - Divorced girl Copy and reuse the written descriptions for this sample marriage biodata. About myself I am an outgoing person and I believe in making a difference to those around me. I run my own non-profit organisation that provides training to victims of domestic abuse so that they can lead an independent life. I started this initiative as I went through a brief marriage that ended in a divorce. While I had the tools and resources to get back on track, I was moved by the plight of countless other women around me who are trapped in abusive marriages. I also dabble in painting and I am currently taking painting lessons to develop my skills. Both painting and my social activism give me plenty of opportunities to express myself. Partner description Religion or caste does not matter to me. However, I am looking for someone who respects women, not too egotistical, and the ability to empathize with others. Having a great sense of humour and not taking yourself too seriously will be a definite plus. I expect the person I marry to be a non-smoker. Social drinking is acceptable. Career-oriented yet having a sense of responsibility towards family are traits that I appreciate a lot in the person I plan to marry. Divorces with no children are OK. Why we love this matrimonial biodata sample? While second marriages are definitely on the rise in India, women, as well as men, tend to get defensive about why they got divorced when writing their biodata for marriage. In this sample, you will notice that the girl has confidently highlighted the positive outcome that came out of her divorce. Marriage biodata format for a Muslim girl Biodata format for marriage - Muslim girl Go ahead, copy and use the descriptions below to create your biodata for marriage. About myself I am an easy-going person with a positive attitude towards life. I am simple, soft-spoken, and respectful with the right mix of modern and traditional cultures. I am God-fearing and read the Quran every day and perform the Namaz five times a day. I am an artist who is passionate about Islamic art and calligraphy. I have created fonts based on Islamic art and I currently work as a freelance graphics designer for several e-commerce brands. I love good food and I also dabble in cooking whenever I get a chance at home. Partner preference I am looking for someone who can be a true friend for life. He should be calm, understanding, caring, loving, and at least be moderately religious. While I believe in Allah, I expect my partner to have an open mind to mingle with people from other religions and backgrounds. My ideal match would be someone who is successful in his career, well settled, and has a positive outlook on life even when the going gets tough. Why we love this marriage biodata sample? Notice how this Muslim girl has cleverly managed to include details about her religious belief without sounding too traditional. She has indicated how many times she performs namaz, her Umrah and Hajj trips, and has left her decision open regarding hijab after marriage. Marriage biodata format for Christian girl Biodata format for marriage - Christian girl Go ahead, copy and use the descriptions below to create your biodata for marriage. About myself I am a God-fearing, devout Christian with a positive outlook towards life. I take each day as it comes and believes that God has a plan for every one of us and we will have to be patient with his plan to unfold. I believe in respecting elders and love the religious as well as cultural traditions of our family. While I am a Tamilian, I have lived all my life in New Delhi and can speak Hindi fluently. I have a management degree from the Indian Institute of Management, Kozhikode, and work for an IT MNC in New Delhi. I have progressed well in my career and will continue with it after marriage. Partner expectations I am looking for a God-fearing, honest Roman Catholic Christian. Someone from the same caste will be preferred. He should be caring, hardworking, and have old-fashioned values such as respect for elders, chivalry, and the deep sense of responsibility to be a torchbearer of the religion and the culture. Someone who has a successful career, a good educational background and a teetotaler will be an ideal match. Why we love this template for marriage biodata? This biodata format for marriage is an example of how a Christian girl projects her beliefs and value systems and at the same time striking a balance with a contemporary lifestyle. She calls out lifestyle choices and expectations very clearly including offbeat choices such as choosing to be a vegetarian lifestyle when her family is non-vegetarian. Please review and let me know your interest in proceeding further. Read this article n how to express interest in matrimony sites to get a response! A marriage biodata provides a summary of the individual's age, religious/social background, profession, likes, or interests for the purpose of finding a match for marriage. A CV or Curriculum Vitae is meant for showcasing a skill or experience for the purpose of finding a job. What should I include my marriage biodata? Name, age, date of birth, height, marital status (divorced, annulled, never married) or handicap (if any), religion, caste/sub-caste, education, profession, names and professions of parents and siblings, partner expectations, horoscope (Kundli) details if needed, contact information. How should I describe myself in my marriage biodata? Your description should include information about your personality, lifestyle choices (food, tradition, attire, pets) likes, interests/hobbies, your goals, and your vision for married life. What is the best way to describe my physical attributes in my biodata for marriage? People tend to either highlight what they consider as a positive attribute (example: being tall) or end up hiding what they consider as a negative attribute (example: big build). Embracing this strategy may get you responses but you will end up disappointing people who may then jump to a conclusion that you look nothing like what your biodata described! Mentioning your height in your biodata is easy. Just say "I am 5'8" tall". When talking about expectations, it's better to either say "looking for a tall girl/boy" or "someone who is at least 5'5" tall". To describe your physical status, you can use these examples: "I am a tall, handsome person with a medium build and..." "I am 6'2" tall, hefty man..." "I am a petite girl..." Having a great profile photograph can help you much more than words. Just indicate what you think is essential but spend a lot of effort in getting proper profile photographs. After all the proof of your description is in the photo. Employ a professional photographer or get it done properly with help from your family and friends. How should I describe my profession? The best strategy for describing your profession when writing biodata for marriage should be to focus on what you do at work (in addition to who you work for), provide an indication of your commitment to work-life balance, and describe in a few lines your expectation in terms of the potential match's career. Here is an example: "I work as a software engineer for Jodi Logik, a Chennai-based startup. I am very keen on pursuing my career in building startups and have a fairly hectic schedule. At the same time, I like to unwind during the weekends and love spending time with my family. Looking for someone who can be supportive of my career choice and also have a career of her own." How should I write about my family in my marriage biodata? Include the names and the professions of your parents and siblings. Call out your family's orientation (orthodox/moderately traditional/modern), family structure (nuclear/joint family), and any notable highlights or accomplishments of your immediate family members. Include the hometowns of your parents. Should I include my salary/income in my marriage biodata? You can choose to include your salary/income depending on the accepted norms in your community. If you do not want to mention salary, you can describe your income using phrases such as "well-earning job", "successful career", or "well-settled". How should I write about my hobbies for marriage biodata? The purpose of writing biodata for marriage is to showcase your personality and specify what you are looking for in the other person. Make sure you spend some time thinking about what you truly like doing when you are not at your workplace and put in some effort to describe it. Visualise how you want to spend your days and weekends after marriage and write about your expectations in terms of your potential match's personality. If you love reading books, talk about the recent book you read and what you learn from it. Connect this with your personalities such as your curious nature or inquisitiveness. Here is an example of how a movie lover shares his interest in movies: "I love watching diverse movies from around the world. I see movies as a great way to understand different cultures and also see the world from a different perspective." Why should you create your marriage biodata on Jodi Logik? The traditional biodata format for marriage is useless! The first step in any arranged marriage is to create a marriage biodata or biodata for marriage. The marriage data comes in handy in the following scenarios: Parents can circulate a printed copy of the marriage biodata among family and friends. People who express interest through online matrimony expect to see a marriage biodata before initiating a conversation or an arranged marriage first meeting. But, the challenge is in finding the right format for your marriage biodata. While there is a big demand for a marriage biodata format, the options available on the Internet fall short of requirements. Here are a few reasons why biodata formats for marriage available elsewhere are inadequate! Most of the marriage biodata formats available online resemble a job resume. They are devoid of any character (in other words, design) and are boring! If you use a generic marriage biodata format, you will end up doing your best to hide your personality and make yourself a part of the "crowd" of marriage biodata that people use. Focussing only on hard facts with the aim of shortlisting a prospective match and then sharing more details is a great idea. The only problem is that it's a huge waste of your time and invariably sets you up for disappointment. You will realise that when you meet a shortlisted match, they will not meet your expectations or vice versa! Not having a custom biodata for marriage makes you a great candidate for outright rejection. Would you buy a soap wrapped in white paper and has no label on it? Here is what you will see when you search for a marriage biodata format! If you look closely, you will fall asleep! That's why we believe not having a proper marriage biodata format is a lost opportunity for. Standing out from the crowd - Differentiate yourself by sharing a marriage biodata form that is significantly different from what others typically use. Creating a great first impression - Scientists have found that people form an impression in 1/10th of a second. Use an attractive marriage biodata format for getting noticed and most importantly get more responses from prospective matches. Interacting with the right matches - Use the right marriage biodata format to share all the information you will need to weed out responses from people who may not be suitable. There is no value in wasting time with people that cannot meet your expectations or vice versa. With Jodi Logik, you have two different options to share your stunning marriage biodata. 1. You can create a detailed and stunning online biodata that you can then circulate via email invitations or even WhatsApp. 2. You can also choose from one of our stunningly beautiful biodata templates and download a PDF copy of your marriage biodata. Click Here To Create Your Stunning Marriage Biodata Now!
