Get Your Name in New Book Celebrating Grounds of the 1980s Tuesday, 10th Sep 2024 11:56 Author-signed subscriber editions of Head For the Floodlights, the story of a Town fan and his dad taking a whistle-stop tour of all 92 Football League grounds in the late 1980s, are now available for pre-order, giving you have the chance to have your name or that of a loved one - printed inside. In 1988 and 1989, Giles Goford and his late father Jeremy toured around England and Wales visiting each of the 92 Football League grounds. Head For the Floodlights is the story of a football-obsessed kid and a dad who wasnt a football fan, but who had a sense of adventure and wanted to bond with his son at a time of personal difficulties. The book will appeal to every fan who fondly remembers away trips to ramshackle football with their dad. The hundreds of photos taken on the trip reveal a snapshot of what football was like in that pre-Premier League era of crumbling stadia and muddy pitches and how a father and son went searching for football grounds, but found so much more. When a potted version of the story and a small selection of photos were published on the BBC Sport website, the flood of positive feedback was overwhelming: An important piece of football history. I miss those days, I would have loved to have done a similar journey with my dad, The last few paragraphs moved me to tears. It stirs the emotions in everyone our age. The book includes the full story and all the previously unseen pics as well as interviews with lots of players from the Floodlights cost no more than a regular copies, but come with extra benefits: 1 Your name printed inside the book. Add your own name and/or that of a loved one to the subscribers roll of honour a great gift idea for a birthday or Christmas present. 2 Hot off the press. Your receive your copy as soon as the book is published later this month. 3 Authorsigned with a personal dedication of your choice. For full details visit publisher Conker Editions website here. A bit depressing for the coaches of their teams though, that "playing philosophy" is being dictated to them all from a global HQ. I wonder what impact he will have on Leeds. Given that Red Bull only has a minority stake, they wouldn't be able to foist their 'philosophy' or any decisions at all on Leeds without wider approval within the club. Or maybe this signals an intention to increase their stake. It seems that coverage below Championship level is more restricted to BBC Local Radio. I assume that we get pretty comprehensive coverage on Radio Suffolk I'm not in the broadcast area so I don't know. Up here, the top football stories on Radio Shropshire are always about League 1 Shrewsbury and National North Telford, with live commentary of all games for both clubs split between FM and DAB as needed. Wolves occasionally get a mention as the 'big' club down the road, but you're still more likely to hear details of Market Drayton Town in the Midland Premier than you are a full report on (for example) Norwich v Blackburn. Whether that continues as the massive cuts to BBC LR loom is another matter. 0 Checking the BBC football page on 10:51 - Apr 20 by Tractor BuckIt seems that coverage below Championship level is more restricted to BBC Local Radio. Highlights the concerns of the Leicester fans who I know were very surprised in Chelseas interest, given some of the concerns at the King Power. A theme of the new managers being very possession based. Slot, Martin and Maresca especially. I think McKenna has more flexibility in systems and style. Maresca does seem one dimensional. Slot impresses me, plays the same system as Mckenna. Hes very possession based with playing out the back, double pivot in midfield. And it seems to be working in pre-season. But it is a big change for their players from Klopp, so hopefully they will still be settling when they come to Portman Road?! Liverpool fans. BUT he has a rich squad, and is adamant two big signings are inbound. Hopefully it will all be sorted by then. 1 BangaloreBlues added 12:16 - Jun 26Is it me or does every game look difficult! Can't wait for 4th October! 3 EuanTown added 12:17 - Jun 26So our shortest gap in playing a team home and away is Oxford and longest is Birmingham. 0 Cavendish Blue added 12:17 - Jun 26Does anybody have or still use that link that used to add all fixtures to your(android) calender please? 0 NITFC added 12:22 - Jun 26Presumably some of the early fixtures could still change for TV? 0 Ryorry added 12:23 - Jun 26Bit of a shock to realise how much I dislike almost every other club in this league! I suspect we'll find it tougher than most think (but hope I'm wrong). 1 Unhinged dynamo added 12:31 - Jun 26Would be quite nice to win the league on the 11th of April (although no doubt itl be the 12th) 1 EuanTown added 12:34 -Jun 26Also at least we finish early in may so we have a long period between promotion to the prem and starting there. 0 mason 76 added 12:35 - Jun 26Bangalore The last time we were in the championship, the standard was appalling and very disappointing. Apart from the top four, only Coventry, Hull and West Brom tried to play but only because it was the end of season grr home we did go up as champions 2 RobsonWark added 14:22 - Jun 26It's great that we'll be lifting the trophy at Portman Road after the last game of the season :) 0 EuanTown added 15:57 - Jun 26Aye but can they do it at stoke on a cold wet Tuesday? 0 Linkboy13 added 18:11 - Jun 26Must get at least 4 points from the first two games otherwise the doom merchant's will be out in force McKenna doesn't know what he's doing he's out of his depth all that old waffle. 0 You need to login in order to post your comments
