That is why, in this article, we show you six ways to customize its looks, including how to change the wallpaper on it is no fun. favorite picture as the Lock Screen wallpaper in Windows 10, open the Settings button from the bottom left area of the Start Menu. Then, in the Settings app, go to Personalization. On the left side column, click or tap on the Lock Screen wallpaper is shown at the top of the window. By default, the Background, make sure to select Picture. A few stock wallpaper options and your last-used wallpaper are shown on small tiles below. Click or tap on one of the small tiles to select it, or press Browse to pick an image from your favorite picture, and select it by pressing the Choose picture button. In the Preview section, you should now see the new picture that you have selected. From now on, the Lock Screen should use the image you selected as background. 2. Display all your favorite pictures as a slideshow option. To enable it, open the Settings app and go to "Personalization -> Lock screen," just like we showed in the first section of this article. Then, click or tap the Background drop-down menu and choose Slideshow. Click or tap the "+ Add a folder" to choose the folders as albums for the slideshow, and you can see all of them displayed in the list called "Choose album for your slideshow." If you want to remove one of the folders, click or tap on it and then press the Remove button. NOTE: Although Windows 10 does not yet allow you to use animated Lock Screen wallpapers, you can use the Slideshow option to a folder of images that resemble one another, such as the frames from a GIF file. When they transition from one image to another, it appears that the Lock Screen wallpaper is animated. Unfortunately, even this workaround is a hit and miss, because you can't control the transition effects between the pictures. Next, for even more customization options, right under the "Choose albums for your slideshow" list, you can click or tap on the "Advanced slideshow settings" link. In the Advanced Slideshow Uses that are contained in the Camera Roll folders from your PC and OneDrive. If you enable the second option, the slideshow uses that fit on your screen. The third option lets you choose whether you want your Windows 10 device to "Play a slideshow when using battery power." This option is available only on battery-powered devices such as laptops or tablets. The fourth option lets you choose whether your PC shows the Lock Screen or turns off the screen when it is inactive. At the end, there is a drop-down list that you can use to select the time after which the screen turns off. Set these options properly and enjoy your new Lock Screen design. 3. Make the Lock Screen from Windows 10, you can also set the Lock screen to display images from Windows Spotlight. To do that, open the Settings app and go to the "Personalization -> Lock screen" section, just like we showed you in the first section of this article. Then, in the Background drop-down list, select the option called Windows spotlight. If you choose Windows spotlight for your Lock Screen, Windows 10 changes your wallpaper periodically, every day. 4. Get tips from Cortana on your Lock Screen, in Windows 10 If you use a new version of Windows 10, after Anniversary Update, you can get some interesting facts and tips, but sometimes you might also see small ads for Microsoft apps such as Microsoft Edge. In the "Personalization -> Lock screen" section from the Settings app, scroll down until you find a switch called "Get fun facts, tips, and more from Windows and Cortana on your lock screen to use a Picture or a Slideshow as your background. 5. Choose which notifications you see on your Lock Screen in Windows 10 If you want to add apps to show updates on the Windows 10 Lock Screen, open the Settings app and go to "Personalization -> Lock screen." Then, scroll down below the Background section until you find the two lists saying that you can choose some apps to show their status on the Lock Screen. The first list is "Choose one app to show detailed" status on the lock screen" and the second is "Choose which apps show guick status on the lock screen." Click or tap a tile on the second line to reveal a list of apps that are capable of leaving notifications on your Lock Screen. Next, select the desired application. Now, you have to make sure that notifications have the right to appear on your Lock Screen. Go back to the main Settings window, select System, and then choose Notifications & actions. In the Notifications section, you should find the same switch that enables/disables the right of notifications to be displayed on the Lock Screen. Turn it On, so that notifications are allowed on your Lock Screen in Windows 10 Finally, you can also configure Windows 10 Fortana directly from your Lock Screen in Windows 10 Finally, you can also configure Windows 10 Fina says "Cortana Lock Screen settings." This takes you to Cortana's settings, where you should follow the steps that we've shown in this guide: How to enable and use Cortana straight from the Windows 10 PC or device. All that remains for you to do is to choose the configuration that works best for you. Set your favorite wallpaper, select the preferred applications on the Lock Screen, and choose whether you want Cortana to work on the Lock Screen. From now on, you can use this feature of your Windows operating system at full capacity. If you have any problems or questions, do not hesitate to ask in a comment below.
